DXpedition Report

The last DXpedition to Sheigra back in November 2004 suffered the after-effects of an ionospheric storm and such were the poor conditions, only four North American medium wave stations were logged during that fortnight! So three years later, we were somewhat reluctant at first to make the long drive north again to this remote North Western corner of Scotland. But the dual temptation of sun spot minimum conditions and the always compelling scenery of Sheigra won through.

Above: Dave fixes the Alaskan beverage to the earth rod on the shores of the lochan north of Sheigra.

Thankfully little changes up here and we were soon at home again based in Mary's comfortable cottage that has now been used for four DXpeditions. The original cottage used for DXpeditions for many years sadly still stands empty and neglected and no longer available for holiday rentals.

One thing we did notice different on arrival in Sheigra was the absence of sheep – just one forlorn sheep on the surrounding hills. However our hopes of not having to repair aerial wires damaged by woolly quadrupeds this time were raised prematurely as two days later a large flock was shepherded down from the next village and made themselves at home in the fields crossed by our North American (& later our Alaskan) aerial. We were sure they'd been waiting for our arrival! The next few days we suffered some bad breaks on these aerials, though not all down to sheep we discovered. At 11pm one very windy night Dave & Tony were out on the hillside repairing yet another aerial break when two pairs of red eyes were spotted in the pitch black. Torches revealed big stags watching the proceedings – deer and DXers both ran (in opposite directions)! Our aerial wires are high enough off the ground for sheep to pass under, but not deer, which probably explains the major damage on three consecutive nights when the wires had multiple breaks and were torn out of numerous canes.

This was the earliest in the MW DX season that any of us had been to Sheigra and we enjoyed very mild temperatures with some fine calm sunny days. Also not much rain (& mainly overnight) and only a couple of really windy nights which made walking the aerials to check for damage each day very pleasant.

In contrast to the DXpedition back in November 2004, there were no ionospheric disturbances throughout the two weeks. And being close to the sunspot minimum we were rewarded with very low A & K indices. This yielded excellent daily medium wave reception from the Far East with Japan, China and Korea fading in from about 1430 UTC until swamped out by European signals around 1800 UTC. There was also consistent reception from North America with east-coast stations fading in before 2200 UTC and not fading out until around 0930 UTC. By midnight stations from further afield could often be heard - such as the southern and mid western states. There were brief openings to the Prairies, West Coast and Alaska some mornings until about 1100 (see logs below). After our first reception of Washington and Alaska on the morning of 13th on our 305 degree beverage, we added an extra 330 degree beverage targeting British Columbia and Alaska. This aerial could also serve as a back-up if the deer struck again! It was not the deer that thwarted our listening on a couple of mornings though but local electrical interference from adjacent cottages.

The resident population of Sheigra totals just five we estimate, though holiday lets can increase this threefold. And cottages have digital TVs, computers, dishwashers & washing machines like elsewhere in the UK so weak late morning North American MW signals disappeared beneath local QRM on a couple of mornings. We also noted a lack of variety in the day-to-day reception – the constant conditions favoured the same areas of North America each day, even the same stations, with very little South American or African reception on MW or shortwave throughout the two weeks.

Shortwave was generally unaffected by interference and one notable highlight was reception of Wantok Radio Light from Papua New Guinea, audible on 7325 kHz most mornings around 1100 on the Asian aerial. There was also a trace of the new Micronesia-based Christian station on 4755.25 kHz around 1600 on two afternoons but not strong enough to hear a definitive ID. The lack of Latin American and African reception on shortwave was disappointing but not surprising, with conditions favouring Asia and North America.

Although the Asian and southern aerials run straight out of the cottage onto the open moorland, the two North American beverages have to cross an (albeit seldom used) public road and run across private land between the neighbouring cottages before reaching the open hillside. We are most grateful for being allowed to do this, and also for being able to leave the aerial canes in one of the sheds: we certainly hope to be back before too long to make use of them again!

Above: (left to right) Tony, Alan and Dave with three AOR 7030 'Plus' receivers atop three Sony Minidisc recorders to capture the DX. Each person can switch between the array of five beverage aerials that radiate out from the cottage. Amplifiers can also be added to boost weak signals if needed.

When not DXing at Sheigra we walked to the fine sandy bays nearby or upto the cliffs or hilltops (essential to get mobile 'phone reception here!). A couple of obligatory visits were made to the Fisherman's Mission in Kinlochbervie to sample their excellent local haddock & chips! Sadly no real ale at the bars in either the Rhiconich or Kinlochbervie Hotels we discovered though!

A great two weeks of listening, and reviewing our mini-disc recordings on return may yet reveal additional catches to those listed below. As always, notable loggings or UK Firsts are highlighted in bold:
